To all Managers,

This email is just to prepare you for a few changes that I would like to implement beginning at the start of the Next Basketball season.

- Each team will be required to wear the same color jerseys or shirts. Not 3 members with red jerseys 1 with orange and 1 with black.
- The other requirement will be that there is a readable number on each jersey or shirt.

This next sentence is very important:

Any player entering the game for the first time without the proper jersey and number will be assessed a technical foul which means the other team will get 2 points added to their score and get the next possession of the ball irrelevant to who would have gotten the next possession. (potentially meaning up to 2 possessions in a row max). Hint: if you have 2 players out of uniform code then they should enter together to save a later possession but 2 points would still be added for both players entering the game equaling 4 points in this scenario).

This is a necessary change to help the referees determine the player who committed a foul as well as the scorers to quickly assess the correct player for both the foul and scoring.

I hope you understand the need to do this and can help us make things better for all.
